Discover the Joy of Cast Iron Cooking

Ask any AGA Total Control owner—AGA-cooked food tastes better. Cast iron is the ultimate material for retaining and diffusing heat. That's why AGA ovens lock in moisture, flavor, and nutrients, ensuring that you get the very best from your ingredients.

The ovens heat evenly from all sides, so there's no need for convection. Your recipes won't dry out, and flavors and aromas won't transfer between foods cooked in the same oven.

The AGA Total Control Range Cooker—It's simply a better way to cook

Good things come in big packages, and that's especially true when it comes to cooking. Now the TC5, the latest model in the Total Control series, brings you five large ovens, two hotplates and a warming plate to deliver incredible capacity and flexibility.

To create the TC5, we've added two ovens and a warming plate to the popular TC3. Imagine being able to roast, bake, simmer, slow cook, boil, and warm all at the same time! The TC5's roasting, baking, and simmering ovens are operated and programmed with the touch-screen panel and remote control. The additional slow cook oven, warming oven, and warming plate are operated as an independent unit, providing the perfect environment for casseroles, roasts, soups or stews, and for keeping food and dishes warm and ready to serve.

You can use your TC5 as a traditional heat storage AGA, or turn the ovens on and off as you need them. There's even a slumber mode that keeps the ovens at a simmering heat, creating a gentle warmth in your kitchen and reducing oven heat-up times.

The Total Control cast iron ovens radiate even heat from all sides, and every square inch of oven space is available for cooking. In fact, each oven is large enough for a 32 lb. turkey. The boiling and simmering hotplates are each 14 1/2" in diameter, allowing plenty of room for large pans or multiple saucepans. The cast iron ovens are gentle on food and lock in moisture, flavor, texture and goodness, meaning the food you serve tastes delicious.

And as with all AGA Range Cookers, the TC5 is a design icon recognized throughout the world. Available in 12 amazing colors, there's sure to be an AGA Total Control perfect for your kitchen.
